Red Hen has some chicks.
They go chick chick here
and chick chick there.

Red Hen and the chicks
want to thank Ruff.
They shout,
“Ruff, Ruff, hurray!
Ruff, Ruff, hurray!”

Here is a dog.

His name is Ruff.

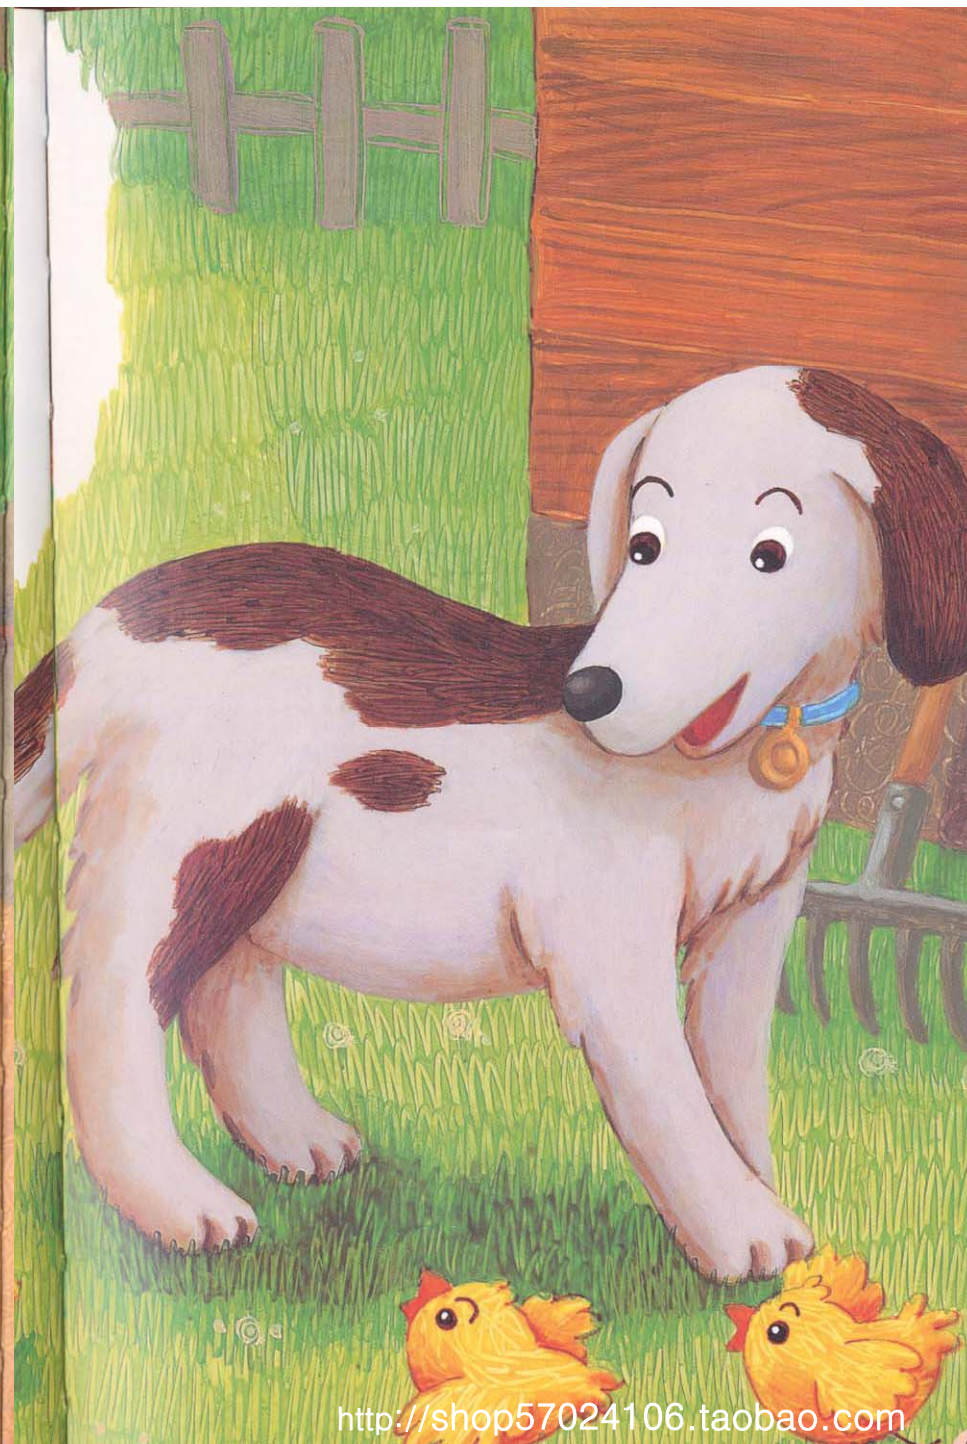

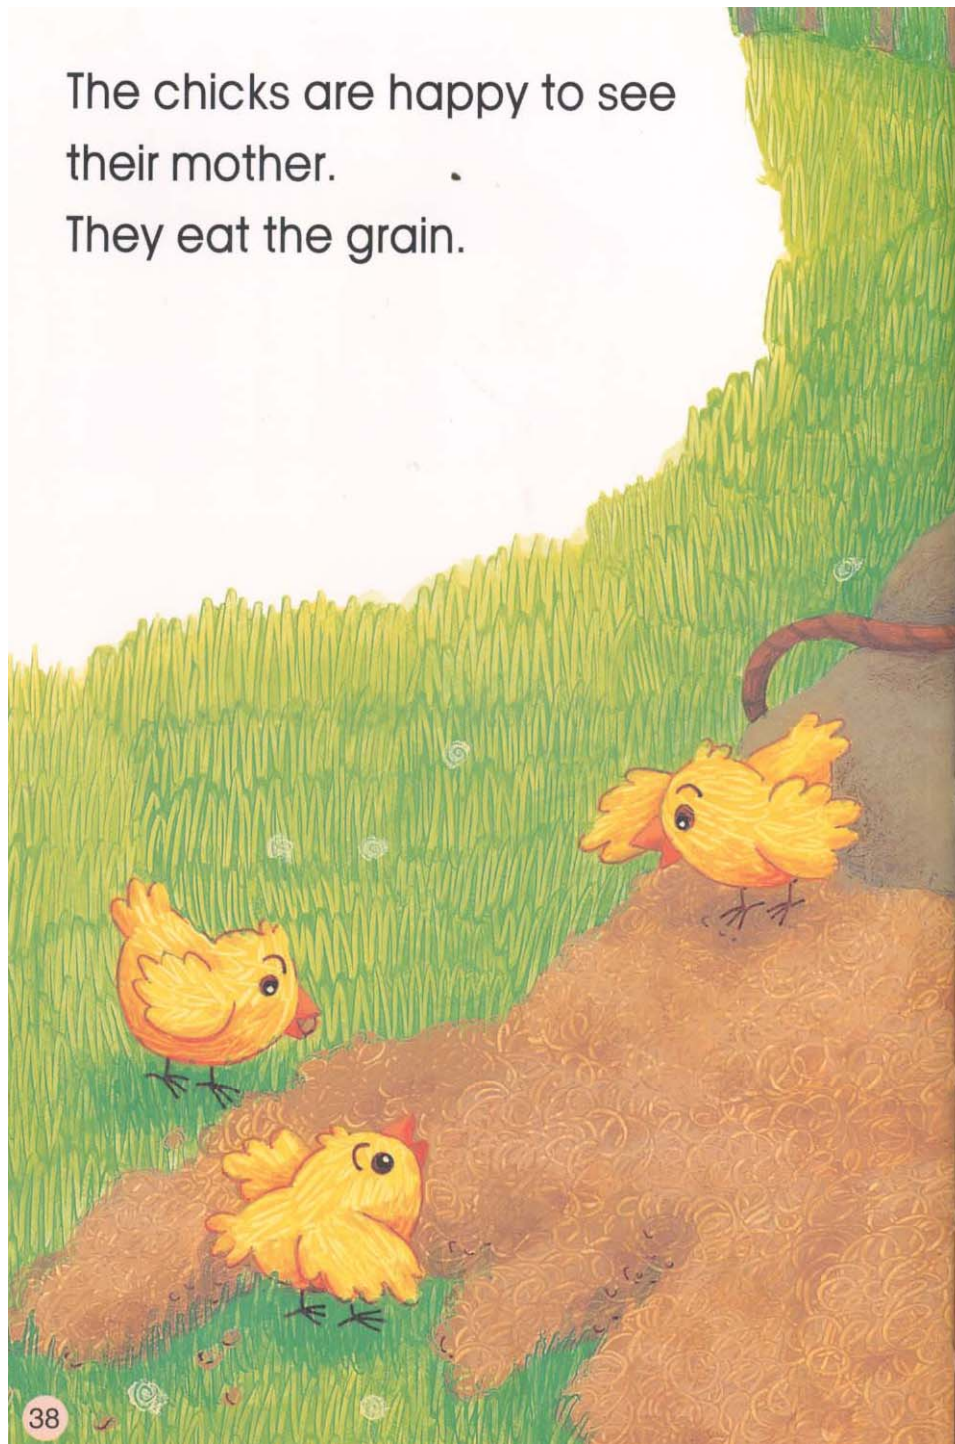

Ruff goes woof woof here
and woof woof there.

"Nobody comes near Red Hen
and the chicks!" he says.

The chicks are happy to see their mother.
They eat the grain.

The chicks say,
"We are hungry, Mommy!"
Red Hen goes to look for some food.

"Let's go home," says Ruff.
On the way,
a farmer gives a bag of grain
to Ruff and Red Hen.
They take it home.

This is Sly Fox.
He sees Red Hen. .
“The dog is asleep.
I can catch Red Hen now,”
he says.

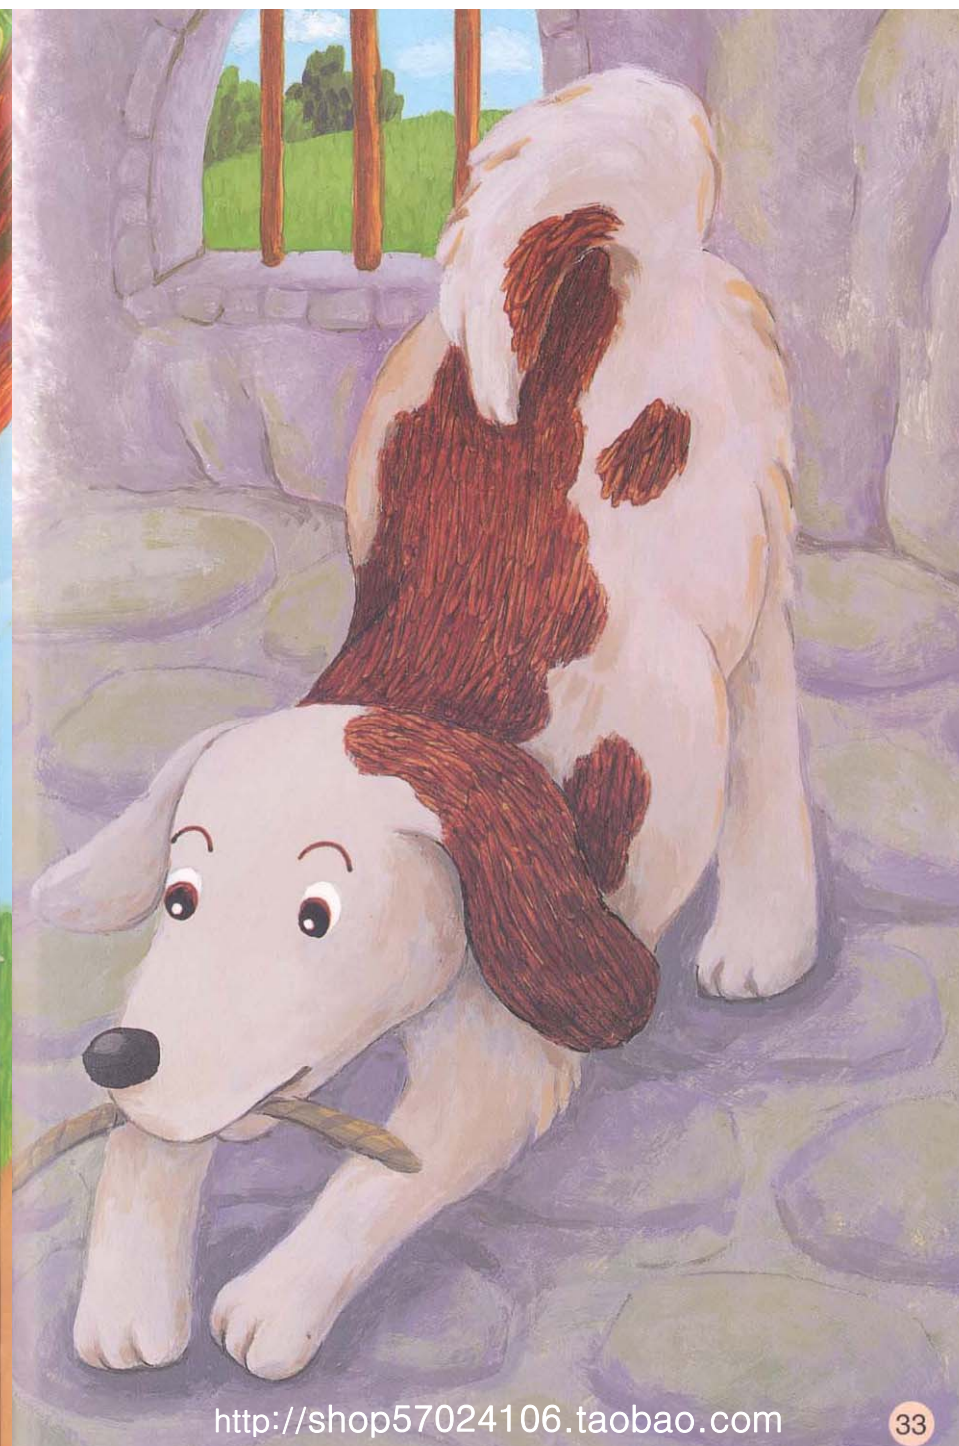

They throw Sly Fox
into a pot of boiling water.
“Ow!” cries Sly Fox.
He jumps out and runs away.

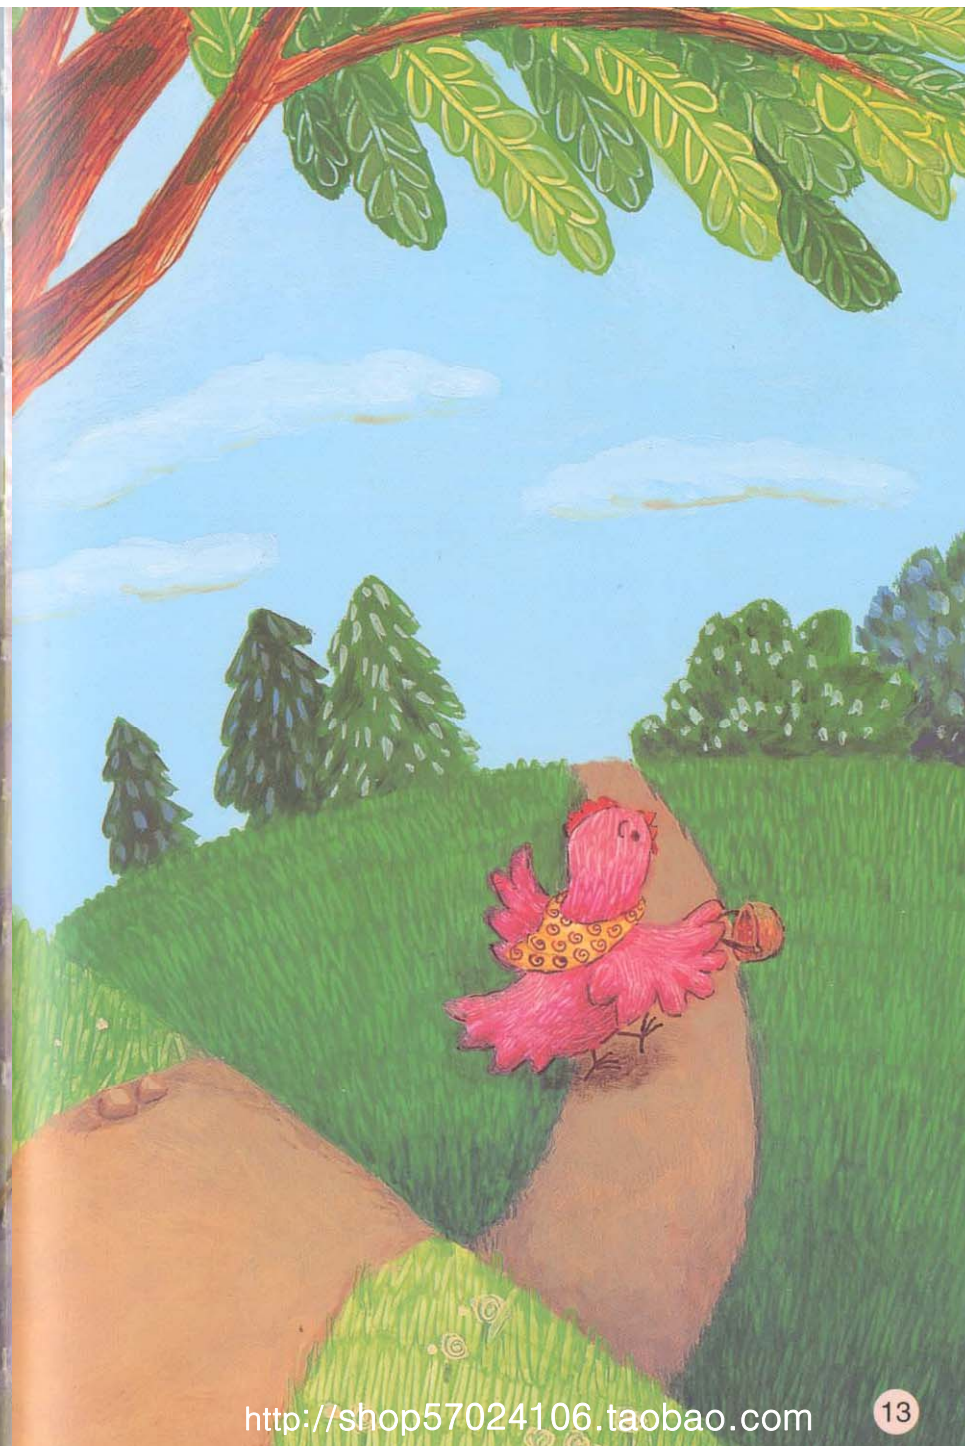

Sly Fox follows Red Hen.
He has a bag.

Ruff opens the bag
and saves Red Hen.
"Shh!" he says.
"Come and help me."

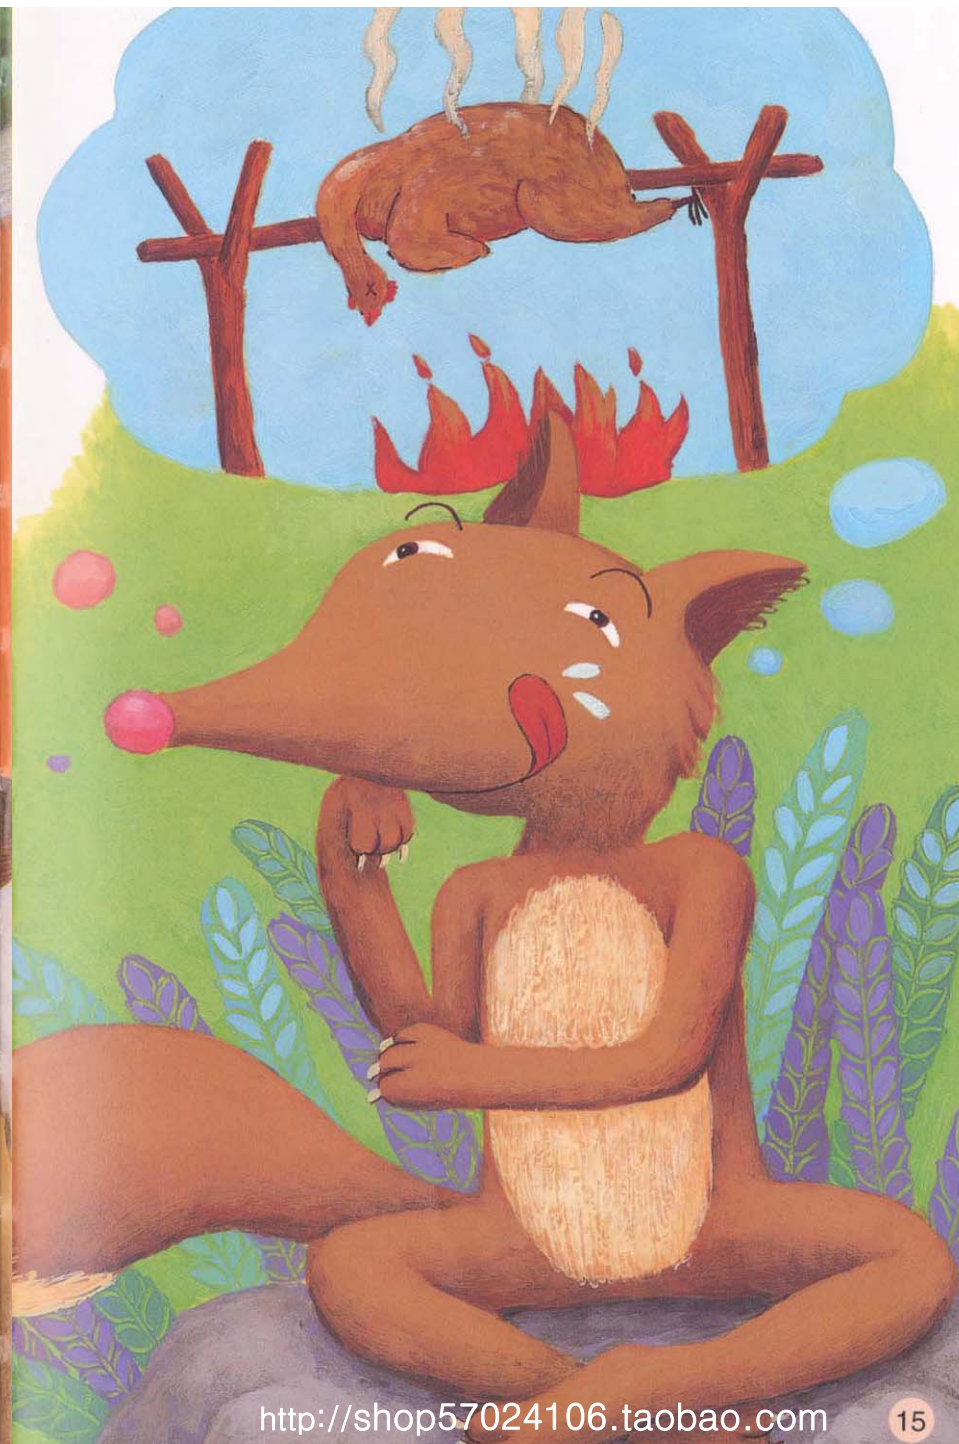

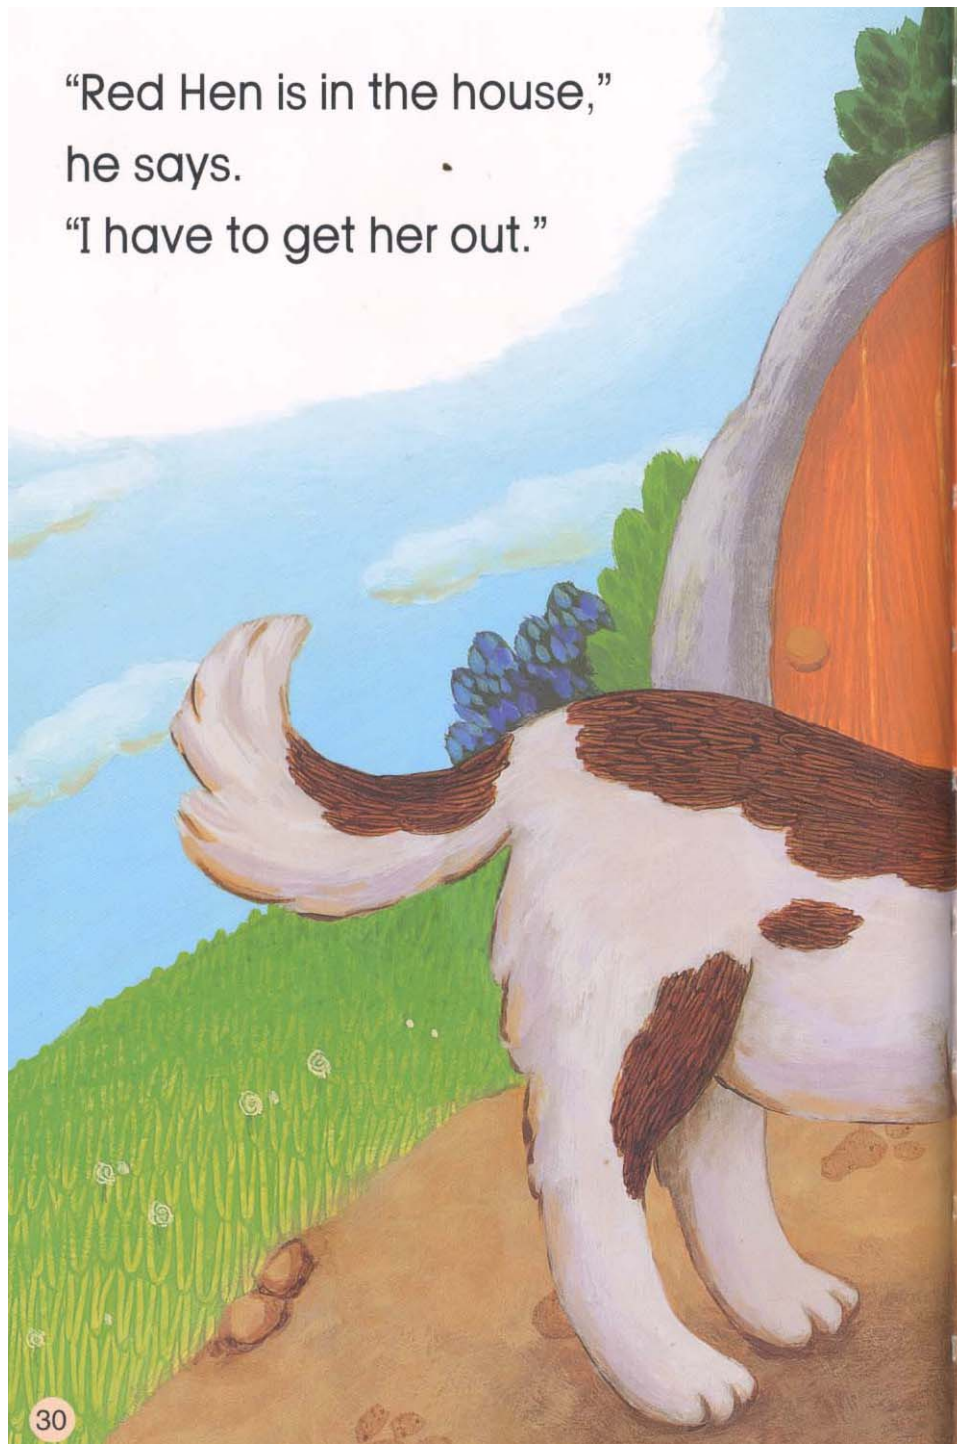

He thinks,
"I'll have a chicken sandwich.
I'll have some chicken soup.
I'll have a barbecued chicken.
Yummy!"

"Red Hen is in the house,"
he says.
"I have to get her out."

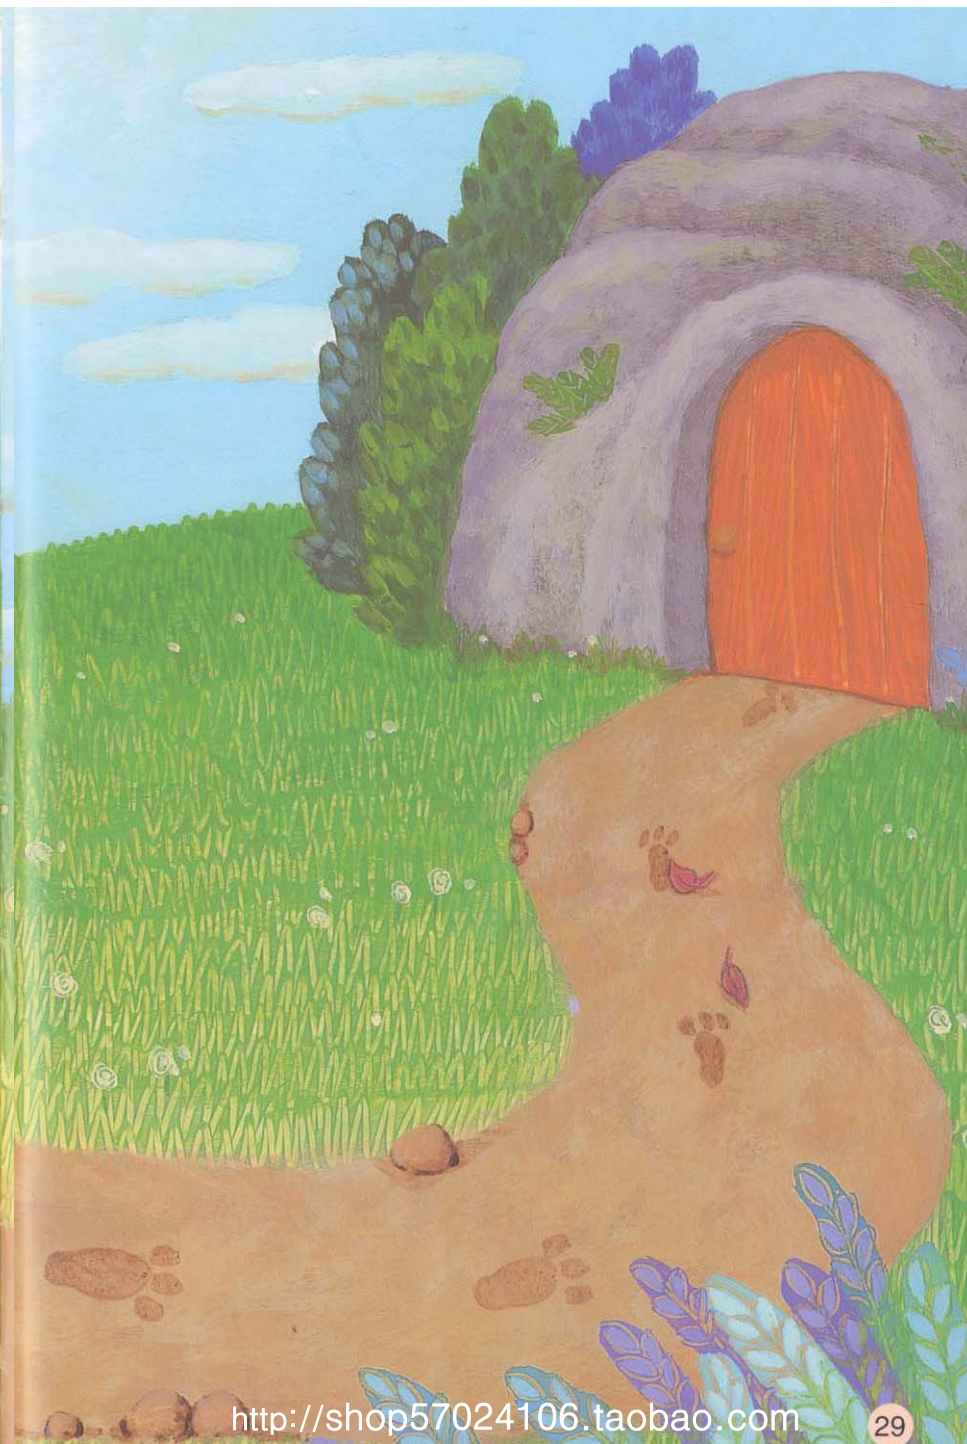

“What are you looking for,
Red Hen?” asks Sly-Fox.

“I am looking for some food,”
she says.

“I have some in my bag,”
he says.

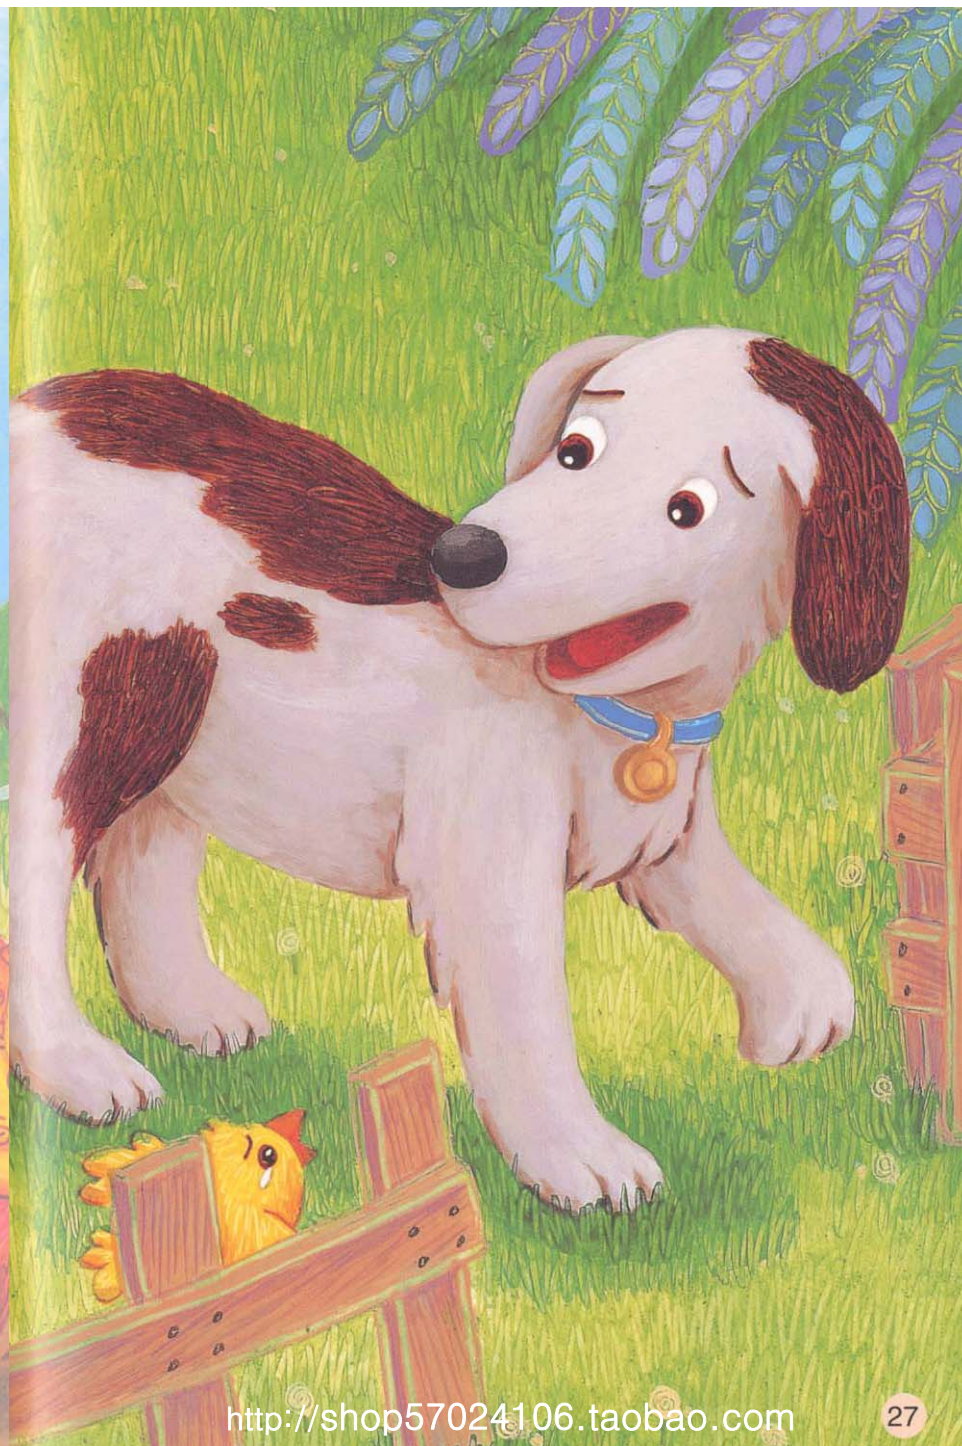

Ruff sniffs and sniffs.
Finally, he finds Sly Fox's house.

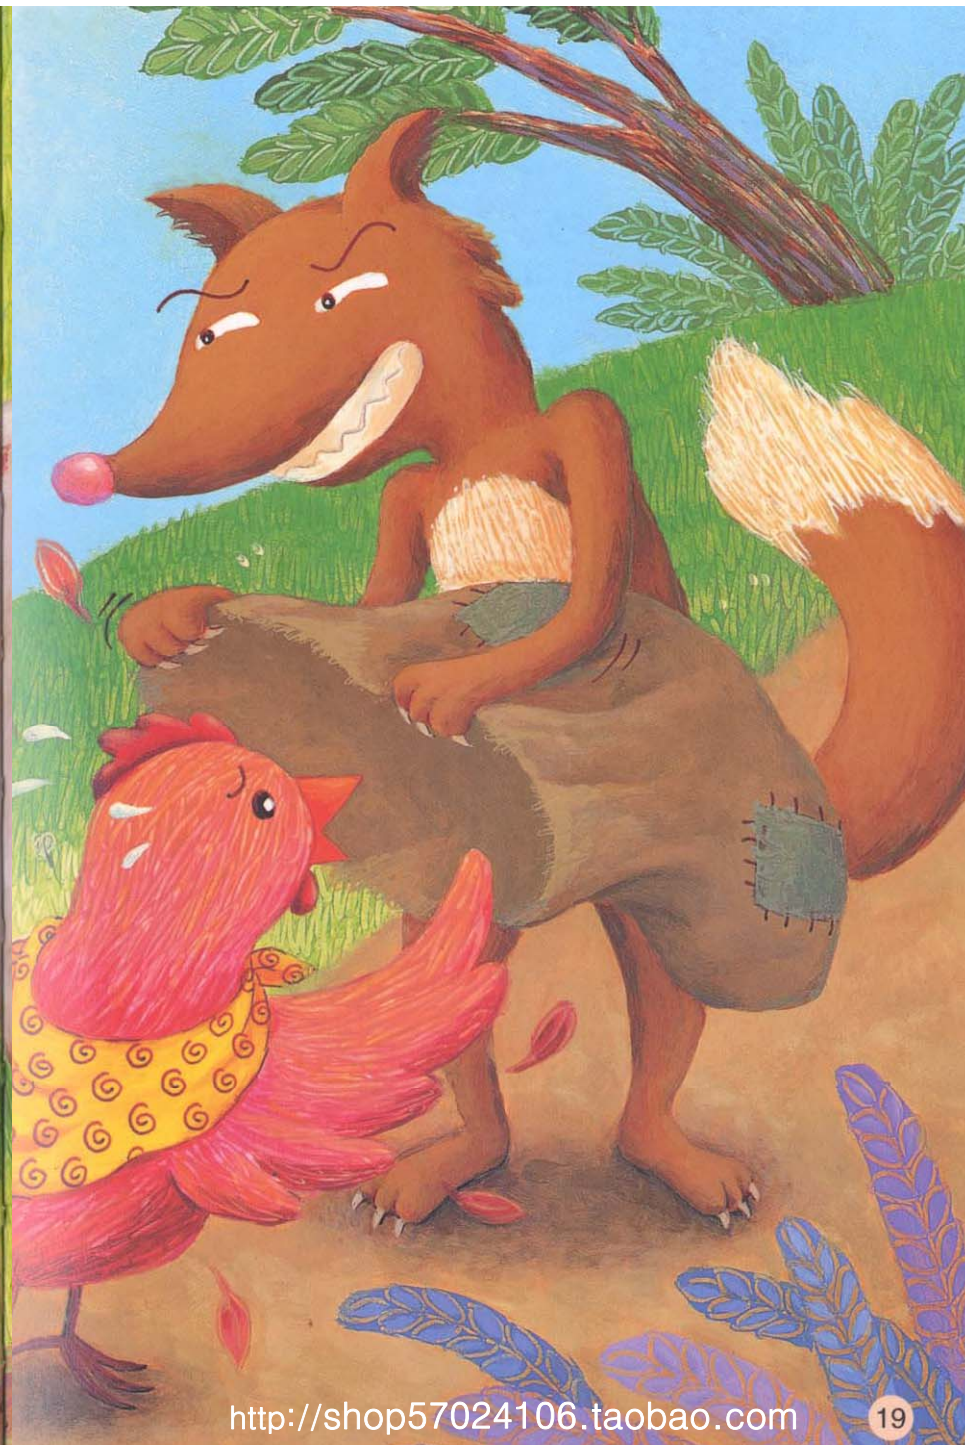

Red Hen looks into the bag.
“In you go, Red Hen,” says Sly Fox.
“Help! Help!” cries Red Hen.

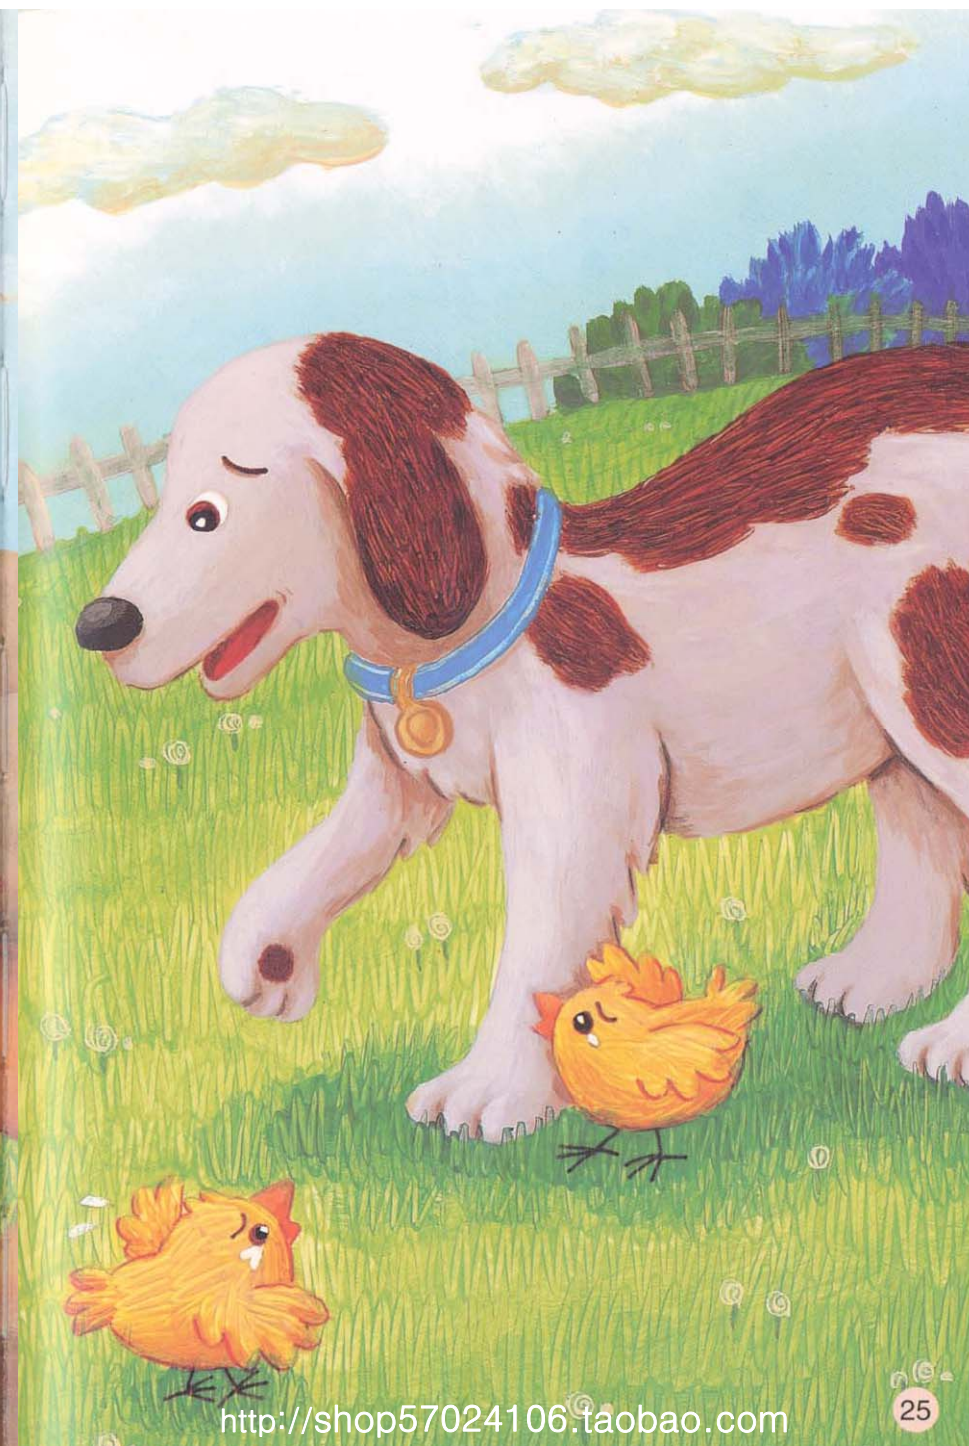

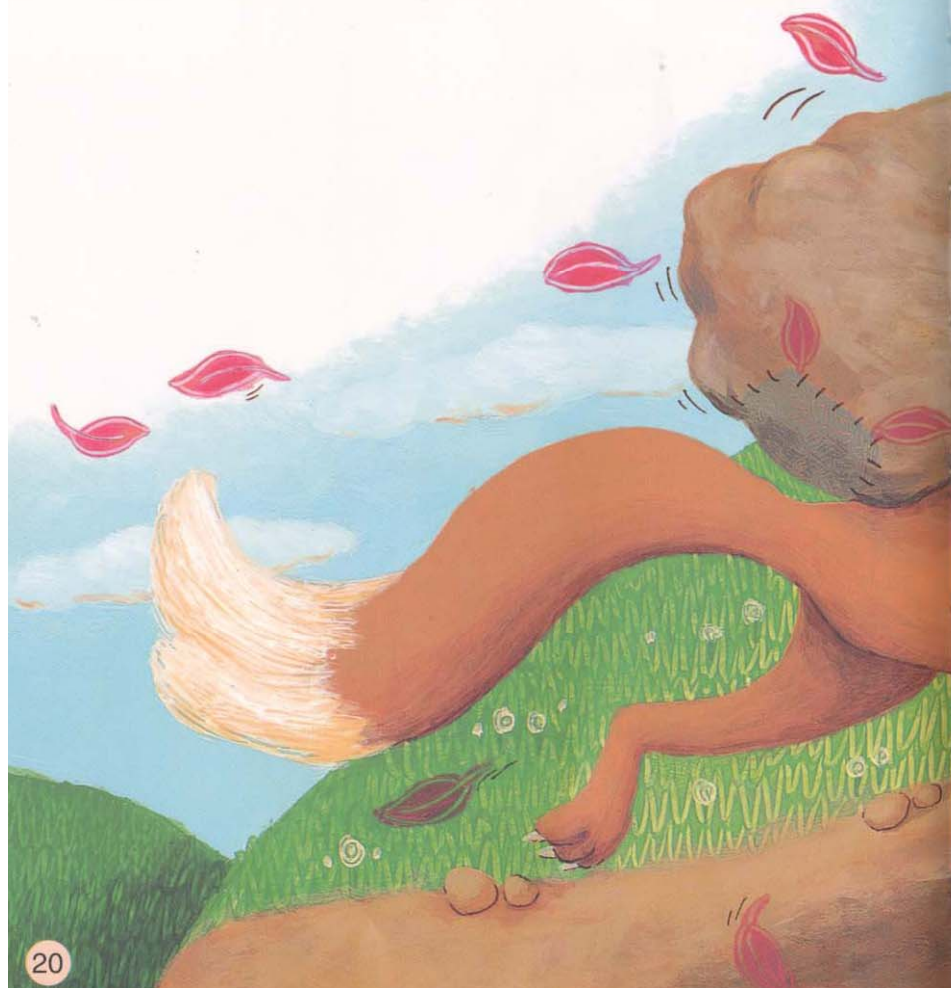

"I'll go look for her," says Ruff.

Red Hen is in the bag.
Sly Fox runs home.
"Home we go. Home we go,"
he says.

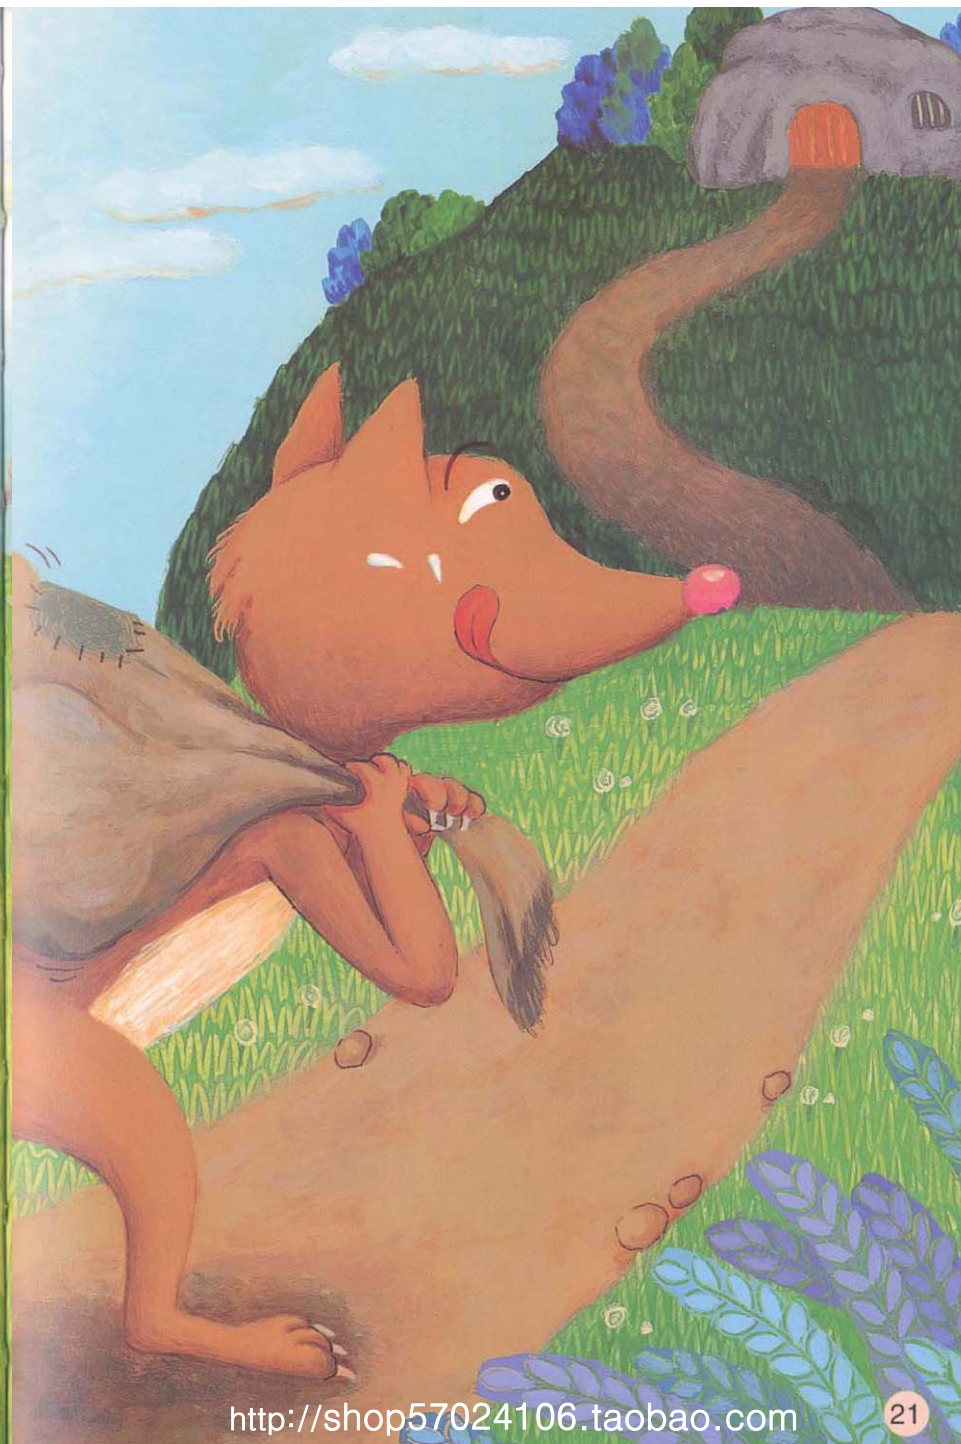

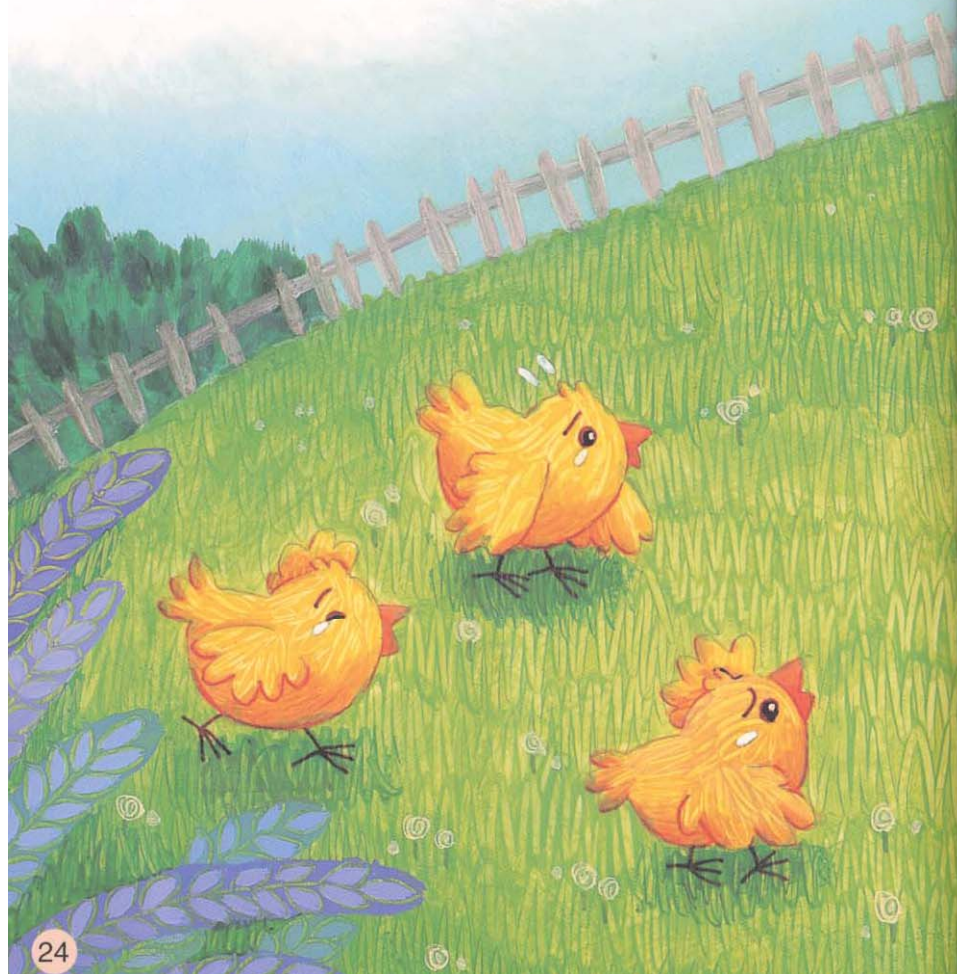

The chicks are crying.

"Where is your mommy?" asks Ruff.

"She is not home," say the chicks.

"She is looking for some food.

We are very hungry."

Sly Fox is home now.
He is very tired.
He falls asleep.
